What is club waste?

Club waste refers to the waste product produced by commercial entities such as Offices, Sports Club, Hotels, etc and the businesses activities. Tackling club waste is crucial as it makes up around 25% of England's total waste every year so every business, large or small, must deal with this issue in one way or another.

Club waste collection is simply the safe collection and secure transfer of your club waste to a facility to sort and dispose of. The type of commercial waste produced by a club will depend on the kind of activities they are involved in, which also impacts how they will be required to collect, store and dispose of this waste. Alongside this, it is highly likely that as a club you may have varying collection schedules, which will be taken in to account by our club waste management team.

Why do you need it?

Waste collection is one of the fundamentals when it comes to ensuring your club is operating smoothly, with every club and business in the UK having a duty of care that requires them to collect, store and dispose of their club waste safely. Failure to comply with the Environmental Protection Act (1990) can result in heavy fines and even prosecution.

How you handle your waste is something that many clubs and businesses fail to give adequate attention to. However, making the right strategic decisions when it comes to waste management could end up saving you and your club hundreds of pounds a year.

What types of club waste are there?

There are a variety of waste collection and disposal services, including;

- General waste,
- Cardboard recycling,
- Glass recycling,
- Plastic recycling,
- Food waste,

- Clinical waste,
- Hazardous waste,
- Secure document shredding,
- Washroom waste.

What determines how much you pay for regular waste collection?

- How often your club waste is collected – commonly the more regular visits to collect rubbish, the cheaper the cost per visit is
- The types of waste you need disposing of – as mentioned above there's all sorts of types of business waste, meaning some types of rubbish require specialist waste collection companies
- The amount waste you produce and the weight of this rubbish – less waste and lighter collections usually means lower bills as transportation and landfill costs are cheaper
- Where your club is located – waste collection companies are more competitive in certain regions, for example if their headquarters is there.

Recycling and the Environment

The environmental impact of commercial waste is significant. Ensuring the commercial waste is collected regularly, safely and disposed of in the most eco-friendly method becoming a growing concern for all.

As a club you should encourage your colleagues to recycle as much as possible – although recycled rubbish still requires collection, it normally costs less because your rubbish has value, causing less damage to the environment and less damage to your bottom line.

The reason for cheaper collections on recycling materials is that the waste operator which processes your rubbish will be able to sell on the materials to industries that can use them in their products.

Are you trying to reach a recycling goal for your club? We can help to facilitate that.
